“Hokusai Returns Home” is an XR book of imagery created by Anthony Bonnet with the assistance of Artificial Intelligence (AI) and is respectfully dedicated to Hayao Miyazaki, the team at Midjourney, all the creatives using AI, the artists “trending on Artstation” and little bear. As a 218 page, high-resolution print on demand product with perfect bound spine, “Hokusai Returns Home” is an example of how AI has manifested in physical forms through it’s human interface. This is also the premise of MonkeyAI, along with the monkey-like joy to explore and experience more.

This first edition will have a limited number of print-on-demand issues, each with a unique code and QR code to XR content.

The second edition of “Hokusai Returns Home” will feature Augmented Reality and other XR content.

Anthony Bonnet, known as Mn8XR, is an XR Designer based in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida. He is available for freelance projects and consultation.

Anthony is open to interview requests to share his creative process and why he finds AI to be such a powerful tool.
